Overview

How do you design a home uninterruptible power supply (UPS)?

Design a home uninterruptible power supply (UPS) by using a car battery as a backup power source. This is connected to a buck-boost converter that generates a stable 12 V/5 A supply to power the Wi-Fi router, as well as a 6.5 V/1.5 A buck converter to power a cordless telephone. The circuit in Figure 1 was designed out of necessity.

What is an uninterruptible power supply (UPS)?

An uninterruptible power supply (UPS) is a device that ensures that the load stays powered even if the grid blacks out. On a very simplified diagram, you can see how the direct current standby UPS works. When there is power on a grid, current flows first via an ACDC converter and then via a DCDC converter to the output.

Why do we need an uninterruptible power supply for our home?

As the world becomes more advanced, our dependence on electricity becomes more acute. Power outages can reduce the most sophisticated homes to quite primitive ones and this article describes the design of an uninterruptible power supply for the home that keeps alive the home's most essential service: Wi-Fi.

What do you need to make an uninterruptible power supply?

For prototypes, you need a soldering iron, cuprextit boards, wires, solder, flux, and the components listed later. For measurement, you need a multimeter, an oscilloscope, and a thermometer (or thermal camera). Step 1: What Is an Uninterruptible Power Supply?

How does an uninterrupted power supply work?

Most uninterrupted power supplies sold for computers 'switch' power, running a small inverter when power is interrupted, then switching back to 'normal' power when it's back on. This one simply produces AC power with a continuous duty inverter and assumes some system (s) will charge the DC battery supply it requires faster than it consumes it.

How can I extend my uninterrupted power supply system?

This guide will yield one scalable uninterrupted power supply system. You may extend it with power generation, or solar/wind/etc. as you see fit. Most uninterrupted power supplies sold for computers 'switch' power, running a small inverter when power is interrupted, then switching back to 'normal' power when it's back on.
