Overview

Who is lithium Chile?

Lithium Chile Inc. (TSX: LITH, OTCQB: LTMCF) is a Calgary-based mineral exploration company managing over 140,000 hectares in Chile and Argentina. Focused on its Arizaro Project, it develops high-quality lithium for electric vehicles and energy storage through sustainable methods and strategic partnerships.

Are battery energy storage systems a viable alternative for Chilean power producers?

With transmission lines at overcapacity and permitting delays slowing the development of new grid infrastructure, battery energy storage systems (BESS) have surged as a profitable alternative for Chilean power producers.

What is lithium Chile's contribution to battery technology?

Lithium Chile's contribution to battery technology centers on the exploration and development of lithium-rich brine deposits. The company's Arizaro Project stands as its primary asset, containing 4,122,000 tonnes of lithium carbonate equivalent.

Will Chile be able to develop energy storage projects in 2024?

In 2022, Chile passed an energy storage and electromobility bill, which made stand-alone storage projects profitable, but the market is still expecting new rules on capacity payment for storage projects, which are to be approved in 2024. Chile has also put in place an auction procedure to award public land for the development of BESS projects.

How many energy storage projects are in Chile?

According to a December 2023 publication on the InvestChile website, the country had 23 approved energy storage projects with a total of 3,000 MW of capacity. Chile is exploring a variety of solutions to keep abreast of the changing energy demand landscape ranging from BESS to innovative projects using CO2.

How many hectares of lithium are there in Chile?

The Chilean government approved the Salar de Coipasa for commercial exploitation under the National Lithium Strategy. In response, Lithium Chile expanded its holdings from 11,300 to 13,100 hectares, with an additional 6,100 hectares pending approval.
